THIRTY-FIFTH REPORT

ON THE

DISTRICT, CRIMINAL,

AND

PRIVATE LUNATIC ASYLUMS

IN IRELAND.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY JOHN CAMPBELL, EARL OF ABERDEEN.

LORD LIEUTENANT-GENERAL AND GENERAL GOVERNOR OF IRELAND.

24th June, 1886.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY :

We have the honour to submit our Thirty-fifth Annual Report on the Lunacy Department of this country during the past year for presentation to Parliament. The statistical tables supplied in minute detail in the Appendices to the present Report, differ but little, on some points, from those given in the preceding—that for 1884.

The distribution of the Insane both in public and private institutions on the 1st of January, 1885, was as follows :—In district asylums, especially intended for the poorer classes, there were 9,687—5,322 being males and 4,365 females; in the Dundrum or Criminal Asylum, 178, 146 men and 32 women;—in houses licensed under the 5th & 6th Vic., cap. 123, 639 persons were located, comprising 245 males and 394 females, belonging to the better classes of society, and paying various stipends for their care and maintenance; while in poor law unions there were no less than 3,775, of whom a perceptible majority, or 2,257, were females. From the preceding data it would appear as regards the accommodation of the insane poor in Ireland, that while each sex is almost identical in the population at large, the male inmates of district asylums are 7 per cent. over the female, whereas females in poorhouses are 23 per cent. more numerous than males. A further disparity may be added, namely, that moral causes of lunacy are a third more prevalent among women than men, with whom physical causes stand nearly in a two fold excess. Statistics.

A total of 14,279 persons were registered as being mentally affected in some form or other at the beginning of last year; in the course of which, independent of the 9,687 above adverted to as being in district asylums, 2,850 cases were admitted, constituting an aggregate of 6,798 males, and 5,739 females, as the full number treated in these establishments on a daily average of 9,781. Of the admissions, 2,240 were cases of first attack, and 610 relapses, the intervals of recovery in the latter varying from months to years; a fact indicative of the fixity of mental disease in some constitutions, awaiting only, as it were, an opportunity for its re-development.

With reference to these admissions, we cannot but think, from personal observation on visits of inspection to asylums, and the opinions of resident physicians in them, that in the past year, much more than previously, acute attacks of insanity were caused by a want of nutritious food, and at the same time by a continuous indulgence in raw spirituous liquors of bad quality. The patients so affected, and physically of good frame, were recognisable from their pallid, emaciated features, extreme irritability, waywardness, and disposition to violence. Some few cases proved speedily fatal.

Discharges.

The discharges cured in 1885 were returned at 1,196, and of relieved at 516; 89 were taken home on probation, for the most part by their relatives, mentally little improved, though tranquil and inoffensive—a change which, not alone on the grounds of humanity, but as likely to prove beneficial, we could desire to be more general, particularly among the better circumstanced in society. Eight persons continuing insane were relegated to other institutions.

Recoveries.

The proportion of recoveries on the daily average of patients in 1885 was 12, and of improvements 5½ per cent; between both it would thus appear that about 18 individuals in each 100 directly benefited in a curative or ameliorative point of view from district asylum treatment. Were recoveries, however, estimated as is ordinarily done, on the basis of admissions, they would stand much higher or about 53 per cent. In either case an opinion is, nevertheless, prevalent, the justness of which may be fairly questioned, that the utility of hospitals for the insane is not equivalent to the large outlay on their primitive establishment and current cost of maintenance. But, it should be borne in mind, as already on principle upheld by us, that lunatics deprived of liberty and personal privileges, from the character of their affliction, not only have peculiar claims on the public, but require for their own, and alike for the protection of society, the unremitting care that can only be afforded in establishments specially adapted to their detention, in a curative and protective point of view.

Deaths.

The deaths, in all 856, were somewhat lower than those which occurred in the previous year—four were suicidal, but not from any culpability on the part of attendants in charge, according to the verdicts returned in each case at a coroner's inquest. The Deaths. stealthy and studied ingenuity of a person bereft of reason, when bent on self-destruction, or as the result of a sudden impulse in the feelings of a lunatic though seemingly quite contented with his surroundings, cannot be well obviated on some occasions. We ourselves are familiar with instances in private life where sanity itself was persistently feigned in order to obtain the deplorable opportunity. No life was lost from accident, and only two effected a permanent escape.

With respect to the interior organization of district asylums in Ireland, progressing from year to year under the judicious control of their Medical Superintendents, as well as to their order, regularity, and cleanliness, we feel justified in reporting favourably to your Excellency. The subordinate resident staffs attached to them fulfil their duties on the whole in a very praiseworthy manner, notwithstanding that in some, many of the employed are dissatisfied with their pay and allowances, still more at "hopes deferred." On a full inquiry we cannot but feel that their position admits of a more liberal consideration, taking into account the irksome, responsible, and not unfrequently dangerous occupations in which they are unceasingly engaged. Organizations and Staffs.

A more encouraging system prevails in England, where Boards, contrasting, in their different localities, from personal observation and experience, the relative value of money with services rendered, can requite the latter accordingly. Thereby a superior or at all events a more educated class of servants and attendants can be procured; not one, however, we are bound to say, more humane, better conducted, or more faithful, than to be found in this country where, out of a total of nearly 1,000, very few indeed were dismissed for impropriety of conduct, or legal offences during the last year. Fines, however, were occasionally inflicted, the total amount scarcely exceeding thirty pounds. System in England.

Adding to the Insane accommodated in district asylums on the 31st December, 1884, those admitted during the subsequent twelvemonth, a total is made up of 12,537; abstracting from which ordinary discharges, deaths, escapes, and transferences, 9,872—5,402 males and 4,470 females remained under treatment. Patients under treatment.

In 1884, with a daily average in public asylums of 9,614, the expenditure on their maintenance, including incidental expenses, save those connected with structural enlargements or the purchase of land (repayable as a rule within fourteen years), reached the sum of £221,753 17s. 7d., being at a capitation rate of £23 0s. 11d. Deducting the Government rate in aid of £10 8s. per head annually, and with it a lump sum of £5,497 received for patients wholly or partially paying for their support, besides some minor items, the balance chargeable to local taxation was reduced to £117,645 4s. 5d. Audited expenditure.

In 1885, under parallel circumstances, with a population of 9,799, an increase of 162 on the average of patients, and of 26 Expenditure.

additional servants, the cost of supporting district asylums was £216,799 17s. 4d.—£4,954, less than that of the preceding year, (the difference of £1 1s. 6d. per head, being in favour of 1885), or £21 19s. 5d. as against £23 0s. 11d. in 1884; a decrease referable in part to cheaper contracts as authorized by the Inspectors, and to more economical domestic arrangements.

Audit.

With reference to the audit of accounts as directed by the 31st & 32nd Victoria, cap. 97, they were passed without reduction or disallowances by the ten Government officials employed collectively for seventy-eight days at their several investigations.

The preceding statement, bearing on the mode in which the fiscal business of public institutions for the Insane has been conducted, is satisfactory, still more as being in character almost invariably with reports made since the passing of the Act. It could not well be otherwise, looking to the social position of Governors appointed by the Executive, who, in the control of these establishments, devote much time, and not unfrequently at personal inconvenience, to self imposed duties.

Government grant.

We would, however, allude to one result of the parliamentary rate in aid, which was granted perhaps, not so much to keep down local taxation, as to ensure a more liberal treatment of the Insane. It is evinced in a disposition at some Boards occasionally, to reduce asylum expenditure by it, to an approximate equality, it may even be lower than that in poorhouses, which the destitute are at liberty to enter or leave as they please. To this theory we have invariably objected, impressed with the conviction that the boon in question was exclusively intended for the individuals themselves, their comforts and well-being, so as to increase thereby every hope of recovery or improvement, as well as, from compassionate motives, to make amends for a want of freedom.

Farm produce and expenses.

Adverting to the quantity of land attached to the twenty-two district asylums of this country, and amounting to 978 statute acres—697 were under spade cultivation or in grass, and 281 occupied by buildings, pleasure grounds, airing courts, and gardens. The value of produce consumed, at ordinary current prices, inclusive of animal food, was £8,211 5s. 7d., while that for produce sold reached £2,425 13s., as passed at audit. It is, however, to be observed that interest on the primitive cost of purchased estates is omitted in the calculation, as well as on that for farm buildings. The approximate gain per acre, after an expenditure of £4,822 7s. 7d. may be represented on the total quantity of land at £5 19s. 7d.—and the value of assets on hand, at £6,739 6s. 5d.

Employment.

It is to be regretted that the farms, on the score of their economical working through unpaid labour, and averaging one with another thirty-two acres, are not larger, so as to afford means of occupation for double the number of those now employed out of doors.

As a counter-part to the deficiency of cultivated land, we are gratified to observe that useful employments are perceptibly on the increase in regard to handicraft work and trades, as well as ordinary domestic services—while amusements of various kinds in the open air and recreation halls are liberally afforded. Some institutions have musical bands of fair pretensions.

A special return having been presented to the House of Commons last January by the Board of Control, (of which we form two of the five constituent members), "showing moneys ordered to be expended on sites and buildings of lunatic asylums in Ireland for a period of twenty years to January, 1885, as well as the dates of Orders in Council for sanctioned increases of additional land," it is unnecessary to advert to them in the present report. The indebtedness of each district for advances from the Treasury was also exhibited therein.

In the annexed appendices ample information is supplied in tabular forms, not only of general expenditure during the past year in its various items, but of all matters connected with the domestic economy of district asylums, and so arranged that a comparison with respect to each is readily afforded.

POORHOUSES.

The aggregate number of persons mentally affected in the above named institutions (153 in number), on the 31st December last amounted to 3,733, being 42 less than at a like date in the preceding year. It was composed of lunatics, aged, utterly demented, and tranquil—714 being males, 1,182 females; and of idiots and epileptic imbeciles between both sexes, 1837—786 males, 1,051 females. Unfit to associate with ordinary paupers, they are separately provided for in each workhouse. If the 3,733 were equally divided every union would average 25, but such is far from the case, as the proportion in them varies from two and three individuals to as many hundred, their number being greatest in the vicinity of cities and large towns such as Dublin, Cork, Limerick, Belfast, &c.

Letting at some Union Boards, a strong feeling has been expressed that the insane of all denominations should be transferred to District Asylums—a scheme which, if carried out, would entail a large outlay on new buildings, or on extensive additions to the existing ones, independent of an increased local taxation and a fresh call on the Government rate in aid. We have uniformly expressed the opinion that it is quite inexpedient to erect costly institutions as abodes for a class of our fellow-creatures, whose well-being and comfort we would not the less sedulously consult, however incapable the great majority of them might be to appreciate the increased advantages afforded by this expenditure; or, in a curative point of view, however unlikely to benefit therefrom. Some thirty years ago it was proposed to erect large provincial receptacles for idiots, epileptics, and demented lunatics, but on examination the project was abandoned from the likelihood, if not certainty, of its failure. We reported to the Executive our objection to these depôts as, independent of the outlay for their construction, the number of counties and cities attached to them would cause much embarrassment in their working, with continuous and unavoidable expenses and inconveniences, consequent upon the conveyance and return of patients, at the desire of their friends, to and from remote localities, distant perhaps 100 or 130 miles. The full establishment cost of each for 800, or 1,000 inmates might be reasonably estimated at from £25,000 to £30,000.

Provincial

Suggestion as to accommodation.

Experience from year to year convinces us the more that economy and practical utility can be best combined by the conversion of an unrequired poorhouse, if one existed, with some acres of land attached to it, in each district, for the reception of the exceptional classes under immediate consideration. And farther, that such poorhouse should be commodiously adapted to its new object, both by additions and alterations, and be supported altogether out of a Union taxation, as at present maintained. What has been so satisfactorily adopted at Belfast may well serve as an example. The Guardians there met the difficulty in a business-like way. The poorhouse at large was much overcrowded with idiots, imbeciles, epileptics, and the like, not a few of them living in common with the pauper population. The attention of the Local Board was specially directed by the Inspectors to this unsatisfactory state of things, as has that of other Poor-Law Boards in like circumstances, but not with a similar success. The result at Belfast being the erection of a suitable, commodious, and well-furnished structure for 360 inmates, on an open and elevated site close to the main buildings at a total cost of £8,600.

Metropolitan
Poorhouses.

As regards the accommodation for insane paupers at the North and South Dublin poorhouses, few in Ireland are more unfavourably circumstanced. The inmates between both, amounting to 326, should, in our opinion, be transferred to the one establishment in a healthful situation; a similar suggestion extends to other urban localities. In England, or rather within the metropolitan counties, intermediate establishments between regularly organized hospitals for lunatics and ordinary institutions for the destitute poor, have been provided, suited to the reception of chronic or hopeless cases of insanity, as also for imbeciles and persons affected with epilepsy of a marked but not dangerous character. Thereby some large asylums have been disencumbered to a considerable extent of persons not requiring a special, or more expensive, mode of treatment, and being conducted by smaller and much less expensive staffs, effect a considerable saving to the public rates. What we would advocate is a somewhat similar system, but practically rendered more economical by taking advantage, where available, of poor-houses in separate districts, and fitting them up becomingly to their intended purpose.

With reference to the treatment of the mentally affected in poorhouses throughout the country at present, and making due allowance for the manifold deficiencies in them as means to an end, we are quite disposed, on the whole, to record from personal knowledge a not unfavourable judgment. In the almost uniform absence of paid and responsible attendants, well conducted and kindly disposed paupers, rewarded only by somewhat more liberal dietary allowances, have charge of the insane. We find too that the principal resident officials, masters and matrons, do not overlook their well-being. The insane, as a rule, are on the best scale of food, and visited daily by the Union physicians. The lodging in the "idiot wards," for such is the general denomination of the department assigned to the classes in question, is on the whole good, and the wearing apparel passable; but facilities for washing and bathing are very meagre, while the rooms inhabited by day are dark, gloomy, restricted, and opening into very circumscribed and walled-in yards, which, generally speaking, constitute the sole exercise or airing courts. Nevertheless, improvements, slight though they be, are noticeable from year to year, and notwithstanding all the wants and drawbacks above adverted to, neither the health nor mortality of the insane resident in Irish poorhouses contrasts unfavourably with what elsewhere obtains. All circumstances considered, their condition in fact presents an anomaly as regards result of their treatment, and that of patients in asylums who, as a rule, notwithstanding a studied attention to their wants and wishes are discontented, ever seeking to be liberated, whereas in poorhouses they seem to be satisfied with their position, scarcely ever thinking of its amelioration or their own freedom. Thus, philanthropy in their regard is altogether a gratuitous sentiment in public feeling.

We are unable to name any definite sum, per head, as the annual current cost of the mentally affected in poorhouses. It might, however, be set down on an average at £11 12s., while that in district asylums is £22; the difference between both being made up by the Government rate in aid to the latter. Exclusive of the cost of enlargement and alterations it may, we think, be accepted that an increase for the current maintenance of lunatics as a body, under the improved system advocated by us, would be covered for the demented in poorhouses by £11,000 a year, or about £3 on a capitation scale.

CENTRAL ASYLUM AT DUNDRUM.

The progressive condition of this Institution, has been so fully brought under the notice of Government from year to year since its establishment in 1850, with the results of its management, that the furnishing of details, beyond those indicative of its working during the past twelvemonth, would be in great measure a repetition of previous statements. It continues to fulfil, on the whole, very satisfactorily, the double object of its creation, viz., as a place for segregating certain classes of the insane, charged with serious offences, from the vast majority of inmates to be found in ordinary asylums, altogether untainted by crime;—and at the same time, while providing for their safe custody, does not debar them from social comforts and the full opportunity of a restoration to health. We advert specially to the latter fact for two reasons—first, because it has been lately advanced that the main and primitive object of a criminal asylum was, and should be, a strict confinement of its inmates, and consequently that it ought to be regarded essentially as a gaol—thus rendering curative treatment secondary to secure incarceration. From this doctrine we dissent, our contention being that any person labouring under an aberration of mind, who may have broken the law while so affected, or who after a criminal act becomes insane, ought to be treated as a lunatic; for in the first instance insanity condones the offence however punishable of itself, and in the second, entails a condonation during its existence—thus excluding such a convict from the category of common prisoners undergoing punishment after conviction. Hence it devolves on the Executive, while looking to the safe custody of these afflicted parties, to treat them in every way conducive to their comfort, and, above all, to their recovery—selecting as the place of detention one thoroughly calculated to the latter purpose.

Criminal Lunatics.

Advantages of a special Asylum.

If, however, invalid prisons, as they are denominated, with all their appurtenances, erected on small confined areas, and encircled by lofty walls, are to be converted into dépôts for the insane, and at the same time made the abode of convicts labouring under physical disorders, as well as of malingerers, nothing in our estimation could be more incongruous, and nothing more calculated from association, to make the latter proficient in the art of deception. The logic of facts, no less than the bias of public opinion is against retrogression, and thus it seems highly improbable that a well devised and benevolent legislation dating from early in the present century will be superseded towards its close on the plea of almost imperceptible savings. The Asylum at Dundrum has hitherto partaken of the characteristic attributes of a district hospital for the insane, from the openness of its site, unprison-like surroundings, and the extent of land belonging to it.

It may not be uninteresting to afford here a brief summary of its operation up to the present date, or during a period of thirty-six years. The admissions between both sexes amounted to 706—502 males and 204 females—of them 149 men and 47 women were charged with murder or homicide—209 with assaults of a malevolent character, and the remainder either with burglary, robbery, infraction of military law, arson, or felonies of various kinds involving for the most part penal servitude. Brief reference since erection.

The total number of patients located in the institution on an average annual calculation of 140, amounted to 5,040. The discharges have been 325—partly on recovery, and partly on the termination of sentences—escapes 19, suicides 2—1 homicide, and 184 natural deaths. The mortality one year with another was 3 per cent. Of the above large number of discharges no case was attended by an unfavourable result.

Dealing immediately with the statistics of the past year:—On the 1st of January, 1885, there were 178 patients in confinement. During the following twelvemonth, out of 102 cases submitted to our consideration for removal from prisons to Dundrum, 30 only were so transferred—26 males and 4 females; a fact indicating the care taken by us in the selection of appropriate persons. Of these, 9 were charged with murder (8 men and 1 woman), 9 males for violent assault and burglary, 6 for breach of the articles of war, a State offence, and 6 for minor crimes; the remainder being sent to district institutions. Thus a total of 208 was under treatment, of which number 14 were discharged—10 recovered, and 14 still insane transferred to district asylums, their period of servitude having terminated—11 died, one only being a female. On the 1st of January, 1886, there consequently remained 173, composed of 65 males and 14 females indicted for murder; 49 males and 4 females for dangerous assaults, burglary, or arson; 5 for State offences, and 36—25 males and 11 females—for lesser crimes committed by individuals previously of a bad or vicious character. Statistics for past year.

Classifying the present patients at Dundrum under different heads, we find the married and widowed to be 41, as against 126 single—the illiterate to be a third in proportion to those who are well educated, or can read and write; 133 of the total, or about four-fifths, are quiet and orderly, much about what obtains in ordinary asylums. Nearly one-half are of the agricultural class, and next to them, numerically, are 15 soldiers and pensioners. The incurable, between both sexes, may be estimated at 132, while the average number of males usefully employed is 50, and of females 24. Classification.

Towards the close of last year two Commissioners, after an inquiry of many weeks, reported on the condition of the asylum, the result being that various improvements which we had long deemed essential, and to which in Parliamentary and other papers we had directed attention, were fully recognised by them, notably the elevation and repairing of the boundary walls, the lowness of Visit of Commission.

which, as remarked by us, encouraged and facilitated attempts to escape. The deficiency of attendants and warders, two-fifths at least under those at Broadmoor, and the prison at Perth—the circumscribed size of the dining-hall, scarcely one-half large enough, and the generally limited accommodation at the male side. The sleeping and day room provision for men, as suggested to be met by the Commissioners, not appearing to us advisable, we proposed a different and simpler scheme, viz., to erect new buildings altogether, of ample size, and fully adapted to their object. Our recommendation having been approved of by Government, and the expense sanctioned by the Treasury, we trust they may be speedily commenced, and the more so as not interfering with present arrangements, they would afford increased facilities for future discipline. It is unnecessary to advert to other points of minor importance, suggested by us to the Executive for consideration.

In the appendices the usual Report of the Resident Physician and Governor to the Inspectors is furnished, together with a variety of statistical tables and returns, bearing on the criminal asylum. Amongst the latter is one by desire of the Under Secretary, Sir R. Hamilton, and having reference to the case of each patient admitted during the year.

PRIVATE ASYLUMS.

Statistics.

These establishments are twenty-two in number. Three of them being on charitable foundations—namely, St. Patrick's or Swift's Hospital, the "Friends" Retreat, near Dublin, and the Stewart Institution, pay no license. On the 31st of December, 1885, they contained amongst them 632 patients—243 males and 389 females, or seven less, between both sexes, than at a like date in 1884. It is remarkable that for many years a very slight variation has been perceptible in the number of inmates under treatment in each—not 2 per cent.

The admissions into private asylums during the past year amounted to 172; 136 of them—73 males, and 63 females, being cases of first attack, and 36 relapses—18 of either sex. The total number of patients under treatment in the twelvemonth was 811, of whom 71 were sent out cured, 25 improved, and 24 unimproved; 59 died. Relatively speaking, as between public and private asylums, the latter, in regard to recoveries and improvements, are fully on a par with the former, while as to deaths there is an excess in them of nearly 1 per cent.

With respect to social condition, the married number 69, the widowed 57, and the single no less than 506.

Of the aggregate just given, on the 31st of December last 52 were under 20 years of age; from 20 to 60, 446; and over 60, 134. There were 21 only belonging to the agricultural classes, as against 12 students, 22 army officers, 17 clergymen, 9 lawyers, 5 physicians, and 82 in trade. The remainder, 464, had been previously unoccupied.

Private asylums on the whole in this country are well conducted, Management some of them in a very superior manner, and affording all domestic requirements suitable to the higher classes of society. A few of them, however, are not so satisfactorily circumstanced as we could desire, still allowances are to be made, when want of means to meet payments for maintenance due by the friends of the patients, is in question. We have no reason to attribute neglect or unkindness on the part of proprietors, and we may add that complaints are very rarely justified by facts. With reference to illegal admissions, and consequently undue detentions, we have had no instances before us during the past year, although technical irregularities, of prompt and easy amendment, may have occurred.

Our visits to these institutions are not only frequent, but at uncertain intervals, and at all times patients have liberty to communicate directly with us.

Houses on charitable foundations are commendable in every respect, and none more so than the institution for imbeciles at Palmerstown, close to the metropolis, Swift's Hospital, and St. Vincent's conducted by a religious community of ladies.

Most respectfully submitting the preceding Report to your Excellency,

We have the honour to subscribe ourselves,

Your Excellency's obedient servants,

J. NUGENT.

GEO. W. HATCHELL

APPENDIX G.

LETTER from Dr. ASHE, Resident Physician and Governor, Central Asylum, Dundrum.

Central Asylum,
4th June, 1886.

"GENTLEMEN,— I have the honour herewith to transmit my annual report of the above asylum, to accompany the statistical and financial tables, the former of which are made up as usual to the end of the calendar year 1885, and the latter to the end of the financial year 1885-6.

"There has, fortunately, been little in the history of the asylum during the past year calling for special notice, apart from the records presented by the figures in the tables.

"The death-rate has been higher during the past year than during the preceding one, in which it had been only 2·5 per cent. on the total number resident; but this is a casual increase only, and not due to any special outbreak of disease. The house has, on the whole, indeed, been remarkably healthy.

"The admissions on the male side were exactly the same in 1885 as in the preceding year, viz., twenty-six; and on the female side four, as against three. The total population of the asylum has, therefore, slightly diminished during the period comprised in the tables.

"I am happy to be able to report that no escape of a permanent character has occurred in the past year; in one case a patient crossed the wall of the airing-court, having been undoubtedly helped over by some of his fellow-patients, notwithstanding that six attendants and some of the Constabulary guard were on duty in the court at the time. That there was negligence on the part of the attendants and Constabulary alike on this occasion, there can be, in my opinion, no possible doubt; and it is in reference to such cases as this that I have expressed the wish that I was empowered to inflict a somewhat heavier penalty than the trifling fine of five shillings now within my competence. The patient referred to was, however, discovered and brought back within three hours, not having crossed any public road in the meantime, but having remained concealed in an adjoining shrubbery. The structural additions to the boundary walls and gateway, so long urged on the attention of the Executive, were finished during the past year, and have undoubtedly materially aided the safe keeping of the prisoners.

"The staff of warders on the male side has also been increased under the authority of the Treasury, by the addition of two permanent, and two temporary members; the two latter, however, being sanctioned up to the 30th September, prox. My experience of the difficulties which occasionally, very frequently, occur, even with this augmented staff, lead me to the conviction that, on the dismissal of the two temporary attendants at present employed, grave difficulties will again present themselves in regard of the safe-keeping of the prisoners, and that serious disaster may again result. In my opinion, the staff as it stands at present is the smallest with which efficiency can be maintained, the smallest with which such contingencies as the casual illness of two or more warders at once, the detail of two, three, or even four on escort duty, funeral duty, &c., can be met without incurring an immediate dislocation of all arrangements, and grave risk of outbreaks, escapes, &c., among the inmates, who of course are well aware of the opportunity presented to them by such a reduction of the staff available to cope with them, and fully prepared to seize it. On one occasion during the past year one attendant was sick, another had been dismissed for misconduct, and just at this juncture I was called upon to provide an escort of two to proceed to Broadmoor and bring a prisoner from thence. The staff of wardens was thus reduced at once from fourteen to ten, or by about 30 per cent., and it is obvious that such a reduction must be more severely felt in proportion as the actual numbers of attendants is smaller. A large staff can bear such a reduction of its relative strength better than a small one. On the occasion above mentioned a severe struggle occurred between the men in charge of the airing yard and a group of prisoners, sane or approximately so, who obviously took advantage of the opportunity to combine for aggressive purposes. Two of the attendants were knocked down and kicked, and incurred considerable risk of having their keys wrested from them: this would have resulted in a rush of all the sane and many of the insane prisoners through the airing-yard door, and to the boundary walls in an attempt to escape, and in this attempt several would undoubtedly have been successful with the aid one of another, and these would have been chiefly the sane, who are, of course, the most difficult to recapture. There were but four men in charge of about one hundred prisoners in the yard at the time, every other member of the staff being definitely and satisfactorily accounted for. Had the two temporary attendants, whose services it is proposed to dispense with, not been on the staff on that occasion it is more than probable that a grave disaster would have occurred.

"The presence of these sane prisoners, capable as they are of combination, organization, and conspiracy, is a source of constant anxiety and danger here, where our arrangements, and the architectural structure of the building, are designed for the safe-keeping of the insane only, these being accorded an amount of freedom and indulgence unsuited for sane and dangerous convicts. A group of such prisoners has lately been confined here, and, as you are aware, I have been disappointed in an endeavour to have their ringleader, the notorious W. M. of prison history, again secluded within the walls of a prison, the only proper place for such a character, undoubtedly sane as he is. It was discovered that this man was actually swearing in his comrades, sane and insane alike, to resist discipline and take the lives of the wardens and others, myself included, who might have to enforce discipline among them. If such persons are to be confined here it will be a matter of urgency to make special structural provision for their safe-keeping.

"There have been several changes in the staff during the past year. The assistant storekeeper retired from ill-health, after a service of upwards of thirty-four years; she was a valuable and trustworthy officer; in consequence of the decision of the Government to that effect, her post has not been filled up. It has consequently been necessary to call upon other members of the staff, viz., the assistant laundress and the stoker, to aid the storekeeper in the discharge of his duties in her stead. Three male attendants were dismissed for misconduct, and two others resigned. The various contracts were satisfactorily discharged during the year.

"I subjoin herewith notes of the cases admitted in the course of the year.

"I am, gentlemen,

"Your obedient servant,

"ISAAC ASHIE, M.D., T.C.D.

NOTES OF THE CASES ADMITTED DURING THE YEAR 1885.

MALES.

Reg. No. 681.—M. D., aged 19. Single. Sentenced at Roscommon Quarter Sessions to six months hard labour for indecent assault. Was convicted on 14th October, 1884, certified as insane while undergoing his imprisonment in Mullingar gaol, and transferred here on the 2nd January, 1885. His sentence having expired during the year he was transferred to Ballinasloe Asylum on the 14th April, 1885.

682.—J. B., aged 50. Brought up at Monaghan Assizes on the 6th March, 1885, for the murder of his own child. Found insane and incapable of pleading. Removed to Armagh gaol, and transferred from thence to this asylum on the 12th March, 1885, under warrant of detention during His Excellency's pleasure. He had cut his own throat after murdering his child. He is a case of utter dementia.

683.—P. G., aged 27. Shopkeeper, married. Found guilty at Roscommon Assizes on 11th March, 1885, of the murder of his own child while in a state of insanity. Remitted to Mullingar prison and transferred thence under warrant of detention during His Excellency's pleasure on the 18th March, 1885. It is stated that his insanity is due to delirium tremens. Observation since his admission shows that it is recurrent mania of a very violent character and accompanied occasionally by epilepsy. A note by the Governor of Mullingar prison states that this man was admitted to bail on the 11th February, and surrendered to his bail on the 11th March. It would, therefore, appear that a man who was the subject of delirium tremens, violent recurrent mania, and epilepsy, and who while so affected had actually murdered his own child, was considered a proper person to be at large in the world. This case must be regarded as incurable.

684.—P. M., aged 47. Grocer. Indicted at Roscommon Assizes, 11th March, 1885, for felonious wounding. Found incapable of pleading. Remitted to Mullingar gaol accordingly, and transferred thence on 18th March, 1885, under warrant of detention during His Excellency's pleasure. This is a case of religious mania with delusions. He had been an inmate of Mullingar District Asylum for three months previous to his trial.

685.—J. C., aged 35. Butcher. Tried at Clonmel Assizes, on 10th March, 1885, for murder. Found guilty, but insane. Remitted to Clonmel prison, and thence transferred here on 30th March, 1885, under warrant of detention during His Excellency's pleasure. This is a case of violent mania with long lucid intervals.

686.—W. M., aged 26. Married. Indicted at Londonderry Assizes, on 21st March, 1885, for the murder of one Robert Smith. Found incapable of pleading, and transferred from Londonderry gaol here on 1st April, 1885, under warrant of detention during His Excellency's pleasure. A prisoner of violent temper and manners.

687.—D. K., aged 51. Sawyer. This prisoner was committed to Cork gaol for a grievous assault causing the death of one Anthony Cauty; the offence was committed on the 19th March, 1882. His trial having been postponed from the Cork July Assizes on the ground of insanity he was removed to Cork District Asylum by direction of the Lord Lieutenant on 29th July, 1882. He was subsequently indicted at the Cork Spring Assizes of 1885, and found incapable of pleading. The warrant for his reception here, dated 31st March, 1885, states that he was then confined in Cork Male Prison, but he would appear to have been remitted to the Cork Asylum under some order not received.

among his papers here; and from Cork District Asylum he was transmitted here on the 17th April, 1885, to be detained during His Excellency's pleasure. The case is one of dementia with religious delusions.

688.—J. M., aged 70. Indicted at Monaghan Assizes, 10th July, 1885, for murder of one John Niel; found guilty, but of unsound mind. He was received here accordingly from Arunagh Prison on the 18th July, 1885, under warrant of detention during His Excellency's pleasure. The surgeon of the county gaol emphatically certified him as "not insane" on the day preceding his transmission. On his reception here the next day he was undoubtedly in a state of chronic melancholic dementia.

689.—P. B., aged 30. Single. Labourer. This prisoner was convicted at the Galway Assizes on 23rd March, 1885, of violent assault; his brother, the next case, being tried and convicted along with him. They were both sentenced to five years' penal servitude, and removed accordingly to Mountjoy Convict Prison on 27th March. They having both been certified as insane on the 14th July, they were transferred here on the 20th. They are both suffering under delusional mania, and are badly conducted and violent men. P. B. has previously been in Ballinasloe Asylum, and a sister is there at present.

690.—M. B., aged 25. Single. Labourer. Brother of the preceding, tried and convicted of the same offence, and at the same time. Sentenced to five years' penal servitude. Certified as insane at Mountjoy Prison on same date, and removed here along with him. Is much the worse case of the two in mental condition and violence, and has been in Ballinasloe Asylum two or three times.

691.—J. M'C., aged 64. Single. Tailor. Convicted of larceny at Enniskillen Quarter Sessions on 15th January, 1883, and sentenced to seven years penal servitude. Certified as insane on 25th July, 1885 while undergoing sentence in Mountjoy Convict Prison, and transferred here on 31st July, accordingly. He has been frequently convicted under different aliases. He was under a fixed delusion of long standing that there was a conspiracy against him among the officials of Mountjoy Prison to poison his food, or in some other manner take away his life; and he is under the same delusion regarding the officials and prisoners here.

694.—M. S., aged 27. This prisoner was convicted at the Kerry Summer Assizes of an attempt to commit suicide, and ordered to be detained during His Excellency's pleasure. He was transferred here from Tralee Gaol on 10th August, 1885, by letter from the Under-Secretary pending issue of warrant, and again transferred to his district asylum of Kilmarnock on the 28th of the same month. The governor and surgeon of Tralee Gaol certified him as "not insane," though weak and debilitated; but he appeared to be suffering under melancholia when admitted here, and his hand and arm were atrophied from the self-inflicted wound.

695.—B. N., aged 46. Indicted at Kerry Assizes in July, 1885, for the murder of his wife on the 8th July, and found insane and incapable of pleading; certified by the Governor and Surgeon of the gaol as labouring under "moral insanity." The term, perhaps, is not misplaced in a case presenting such marked intellectual aberration and delusions as this patient exhibits. Admitted on the 10th August under the same authority, and along with the preceding case. He is under the delusion that his wife is still alive, and is an inmate of this asylum, and constantly begs to be allowed to see her.

696.—T. M'C., aged 28. This prisoner was convicted at Belfast Quarter Sessions in April, 1877, of burglary and assault, and was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude, with two months for assault. He was liberated under licence on the 25th October, 1882, but this licence having been revoked on the 7th September, 1883, he was sent to Mountjoy Convict Prison. Here he was certified as insane on the 12th August, 1885, labouring under a delusion that the prison officials had conspired to take his life. He was accordingly admitted here on the 15th August, 1885, presenting the symptoms of maniacal dementia. His sentence having expired, according to information received from the Prisons Department, on the 12th March, 1886, he was then transferred under His Excellency's warrant to the Belfast District Asylum.

697.—T. B., aged 27. Convicted of burglary at Nenagh Quarter Sessions, and sentenced to five years' penal servitude. Transferred to Mountjoy Convict Prison. There certified as insane on account of occasional outbreaks of violence and passion, and transferred here under His Excellency's warrant on 15th August, 1885. This man is a habitual criminal of very low moral type, but we failed to find any evidence of intellectual aberration. He was one of a party of sane prisoners engaged in combination to resist authority and discipline here, and in conspiracies of various kinds, extending even to the length of taking the lives of the officials. Since the termination of the year we certified him as sane, and he was retransferred accordingly under His Excellency's warrant to Mountjoy, to serve out the remainder of his sentence there.

698.—J. K., aged 30. This prisoner was convicted of larceny at the Kilkenny Assizes in March, 1885, and sentenced to five years' penal servitude. Having been transferred to Mountjoy, he was there certified as insane with delusions on monetary and religious subjects, the main of exaltation, believing that he is the Saviour, &c. He was accordingly admitted here on the 19th November. After any excitement, such as walking quickly, &c., his speech presented a slight defect in power of utterance. This, along with the above-mentioned circumstances, led me to the conclusion that this will prove to be a case of general paralysis. Since his admission the defect in his utterance has become much worse.

He had been butler in a family of position and formerly of good character; no doubt his crime was one of the early symptoms of his disease. From private information I have learned that a historical interest attaches to one of the articles stolen, which was nothing less than the watch worn by the Duke of Wellington at the battle of Waterloo.

The above ten prisoners were admitted from Broadmoor Asylum by warrant of one of the Under Secretaries of State, under the Criminal Lunatics Act, 1884, their periods of imprisonment having terminated, and they having become removable to their district asylums in Ireland accordingly; they were admitted here in transitu merely, and have all been since transferred to their respective district asylums.

FEMALES.

692.—A. C., aged 38. Single. Pleaded guilty of larceny, at Dublin Commission Court, in October, 1884, and was sentenced to five years penal servitude. Certified as insane while undergoing sentence in Grangegorman Prison, July, 1885, and admitted here on 1st August; a patient labouring under dementia, of noisy behaviour, foul language, and filthy habits.

693.—W. K., aged 40. Single. Convicted of stealing a cow, at Sligo Assizes, in December, 1883, and sentenced to seven years penal servitude. Certified as insane while undergoing sentence in Grangegorman Prison in July, 1885, and admitted here on 1st August. She is a quiet and well-conducted patient, though noisy in her conversation; a case of chronic mania.

698.—M. R., aged 22. Single. Convicted of larceny, at Dublin Commission Court, in October, 1884, and sentenced to five years penal servitude. Certified as insane while undergoing sentence in Grangegorman Prison in September, 1885, and admitted here on 18th September. A troublesome case of mania, noisy, passionate, and of an incurable grumbling habit; always imagining herself the subject of ill-usage and conspiracy.

701.—B. D., aged 42. Married. A respectable woman, who murdered her own child and attempted to commit suicide while suffering under melancholia due to over-nursing. She was found guilty, but insane at Wicklow Assizes, in December, 1885, and admitted here on the 22nd of that month, still suffering under melancholia. She has been always quiet and well-conducted, and will soon, probably, be a fully recovered case.
